

01:165:201 Intermediate Chinese
Asian Languages and Cultures
Rutgers University
Spring 2017

Syllabus

Course Description: This intermediate level course on the Chinese language places equal emphasis on speaking, listening, reading and writing to further develop the student's ability to communicate effectively and appropriately in Modern Mandarin Chinese. Through a wide range of classroom activities, daily quizzes, and homework and writing assignments, you will build up a more comprehensive understanding of the fundamental grammar of the language, and expand your knowledge of its core vocabulary and commonly used phrases. By the end of the course, you will be able to converse in Chinese beyond the sentence level on topics related to daily life, academic life and aspects of the Chinese culture. In addition to improving the students' fluency in the "spoken style," the course also begins to introduce students to some basic "written style" expressions. The course is conducted in Chinese. Prerequisite: This course is designed for students who have completed Chinese 102 or successfully passed the placement test.

Course Requirements

- Attendance & Participation 10%

This is a language class, which means class time is crucial to your learning. You are expected to come to every class on time and actively participate in the class activities. All electronic devices must be off while class is in session. Attendance will be taken at the beginning of each class. Three late arrivals to class will count as one absence. You are allowed only two unexcused absences. Your final grade will be reduced by one full point for each unexcused absence beyond the first two. More than 7 unexcused absences will lead automatically to an “F” in your final grade. Absences can be excused only for religious reasons (must be reported in advance), or documented emergencies (official documents must be provided). If you expect to miss a class, please use the university absence reporting website (<https://sims.rutgers.edu/ssra/>) to indicate the date and reason for your absence.
- Preparation & Daily Quizzes (小考) 10%

Learning a foreign language is an exciting but also a demanding endeavor. Make sure your schedule allows you to commit to spending a minimum of one to two hours to prepare for each class. In this semester, we will cover Lessons 1~8 of Integrated Chinese. Each Lesson will have four or five class meetings. For each class, you are expected to review the materials we covered in the class, complete the assignments, and preview the materials we will cover in the following class. A short quiz will be given at the beginning of each class. If you are late to class, you will miss the daily quiz. There are absolutely no make-ups for the quizzes.
- Homework and Writing Assignments 20%

For each Lesson, homework is assigned for the first three class meetings and a writing assignment is assigned for the fourth class meeting. These assignments are due at the beginning of the following class (the due date for the writing assignments are also indicated on the syllabus). Homework and writing assignments consist of exercises from either the Integrated Chinese Workbook (WB in the schedule) or worksheets given out in class. If you decide to purchase the Character Workbook and use it to practice writing Chinese characters, you may turn the worksheets in with your writing assignments; they will be corrected for you. Late submissions within one week of the due date will be docked by 10% for each day they are late. Assignments submitted one week after the due date will not be accepted.
- Unit Tests (大考) 20%

Unit Test 1 (10%): Lessons 1~2, February 9 (Thursday)
Unit Test 2 (10%): Lessons 1~6, April 6 (Thursday)

All unit tests and exams are cumulative. Rescheduling of a unit test is only possible for officially excused absences or conflicts (official documents must be provided). You can only reschedule a unit test if you receive permission from the instructor in advance.
- Exams 40%

Mid-term Exam 期中考 (15%): Lessons 1~4, March 8 (Wednesday)
Final Exam 期末考 (25%): Lessons 1~8, May 9, 2017 (Tuesday), 12:00-3:00pm
